

Start Here

You do not need to know how to write a perfect family history. The best first contribution is something small that only you know.

Pick One Easy Task

- Add one memory to Personal Memories.
- Add one family story to Stories.
- Add one photo to Photos.
- Help identify people in Unidentified Photos.
- Add a favorite dish to Recipes.
- Add a relative to People to Interview.
- Ask someone the questions on Interview Questions.
- Add a correction or missing detail to Corrections or Additions.

If You Have 5 Minutes

Answer one of these:

- What is one thing you remember about your parents or grandparents?
- What family recipe should not be lost?
- Who in the family told the best stories?
- What house, church, school, cemetery, farm, or town should younger relatives know about?
- What old photo do you have that needs names added?

If You Are Helping an Older Relative

1. Open Interview Questions.
2. Ask one question at a time.
3. Write down names, places, and approximate dates.
4. Do not worry about spelling or exact dates while they are talking.
5. Add the memory to the closest page, or put a note in Additions for someone else to organize later.

Good Enough Is Good Enough

Incomplete information is welcome. Use phrases like:

- "I think..."
- "About 1950..."

- “Needs confirmation...”
- “Told by...”
- “Someone else may remember this differently...”
